Hi,

Glad to hear that you want to go on our research trip to Allen Co Library. I will get you on the list. We are going on June 17 & 18. The hotel we are staying at is the Holiday Inn downtown Ft. Wayne. It is the same hotel we were in last time and is only two blocks from the library. A block of rooms have been reserved and you need to call to make your reservation. The number to call is 260.422.5511. Ask for reservations and then ask for the Genealogy Nuts Group. The last day you can make reservations is 6/6/05. After that the hold on the block of rooms will be called off and they will not guarantee an available room. So you need to make your reservation ASAP. I will contact you with more information (i.e. time we will leave etc) next week.

If you have any questions, please let me know.

Thanks,

Cindy

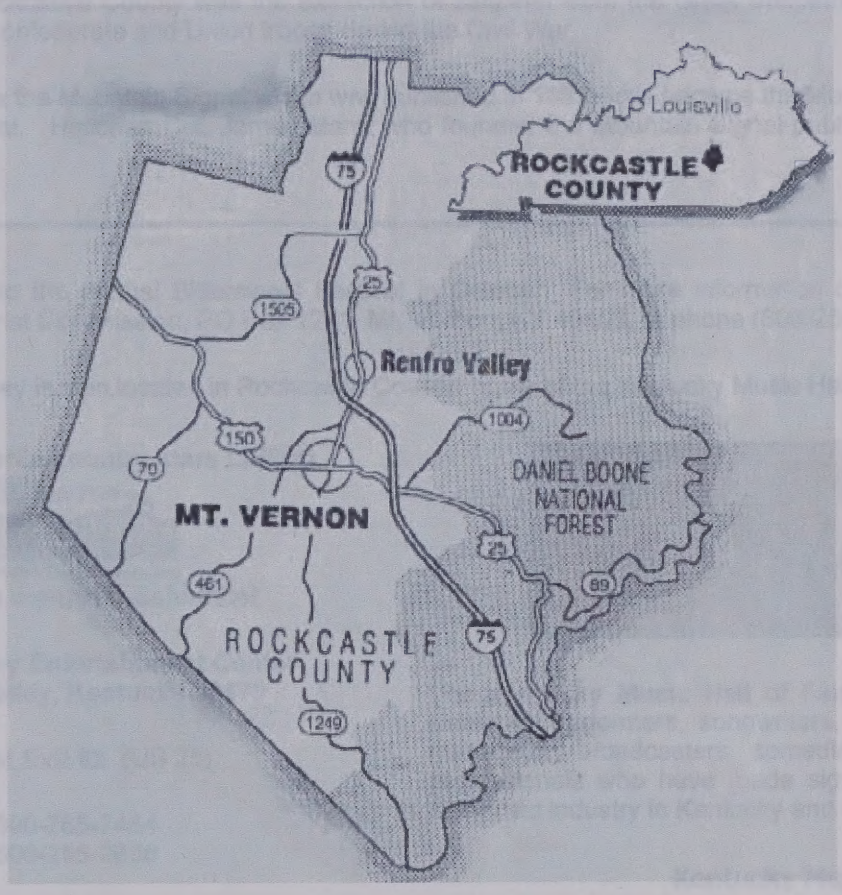
Rockcastle County

Home



Welcome to the Rockcastle County site within the KYGenWeb project

In the spring of 1996, a group of genealogists organized the Kentucky Comprehensive Genealogy Database Project, which evolved into the KyGenWeb Project. The idea was to provide a single entry point for genealogy data and research for all counties in Kentucky. In addition, the information for each county would be indexed and cross-linked to make it easier for researchers to find a name or data that they sought.

In June 1996, as the KyGenWeb Project was nearing 100% county coverage, interested volunteers decided to create a similar set of pages for all states, establishing The USGenWeb Project. Volunteers were found who were willing to coordinate the efforts for each state, and additional volunteers were and are being sought to create and maintain websites for every county in the United States.

Rockcastle County is located in Daniel Boone Country between Lexington, KY and Knoxville, TN at the foothills of the Cumberland Mountains. It was formed in 1810 from portions of Lincoln, Madison, Knox and Pulaski Counties and became the 52nd county in the Commonwealth. Parts of Rockcastle County were later taken to help form Laurel County in 1825 and Jackson County in 1858. About 1/4th of this county is part of the Daniel Boone National Forest.

Rockcastle County

Mount Vernon, the county seat, was established in 1790. The original name for the settlement was White Rock, but it became known as Mount Vernon around 1810. It was named for George Washington's home. During the push West by settlers, Boone's Trace, Skagg's Trace and the Wilderness Road brought many people to present day Rockcastle County and the surrounding area.

The elevation in the county ranges from Luner at 882 feet above sea level to Owens Knob which raises into the sky 1,615 feet above sea level. William Grisham, an early sheriff in 1820, described the land as "Mountainous and rugged country."

An early industry in Rockcastle County was the extraction of saltpeter from the Great Saltpetre Cave. This cave was also a shelter for both Confederate and Union troops during the Civil War.

The first newspaper was the Mountain Signal which was published in 1887 - this became the Mountain Eagle and is now the Mount Vernon Signal. Historian Col, James Maret who founded the Mountain Signal published historical notes in the paper.

Mount Vernon is host to the annual Bittersweet Festival in October. For more information contact the Mt. Vernon-Rockcastle County Tourist Commission, PO Box 1261, Mt. Vernon, KY 40456, or phone (606)256-9814.

The famous Renfro Valley is also located in Rockcastle County, home of the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame.

John Moore, Born January 26, 1834
Died January 3, 1854
Miles Moore, Born November 19, 1830
Died January 28, 1855

Although it stands four and one-half feet high and is still in good condition, this next stone was almost overlooked as it was completely covered by vegetation.

James R., Son of E. H. and J. A. Ponell
Born February 13, 18—[Date crumbled]
Died February 16, 1862
John Downing
Died January 17, 1862. Aged 57 yrs.
[Masonic emblem on this stone.]
Pernina Downing, Wife of John Downing, departed this life on the 8th day of January 1844. Aged 34.

Through the briars and near a freshly made woodchuck hole, I saw a stone which appears to have been more recently placed. It marks the grave of a Revolutionary War veteran.

Michel L. Downing
Va. Mil.
Rev. War.

A number of graves are unmarked and the names of the dead may never be learned. Perhaps I missed some marked graves due to the vegetation.

It is certain that a philanthropist or philanthropic organization is needed to save this neglected but very interesting cemetery to posterity.

Herbert Clark Hoover (August 10, 1874 - October 20, 1964) was the 31st (1929-1933) President of the United States.

Herbert Hoover

Order:	31st President
Term of Office:	March 4, 1929 - March 4, 193
Predecessor:	Calvin Coolidge
Successor:	Franklin Delano Roosevelt
Date of Birth	Monday, August 10, 1874
Place of Birth:	West Branch, Iowa
Date of Death:	Tuesday, October 20, 1964
Place of Death:	New York City. New York
First Lady:	Lou Henry Hoover
Profession:	engineer
Political Party:	Republican
Vice President:	Charles Curtis

1 Family background

Hoover was born into a Quaker family in West Branch, Iowa. He was the first President to be born west of the Mississippi River. His parents were Jesse Hoover and Hulda Minthorn. His father died in 1880, and his mother in 1884. After his parents' deaths, Hoover lived in Newberg, Oregon.

In the summer of 1885 eleven-year-old "Bert" Hoover boarded a Union Pacific train headed west to Oregon. Sewn into his clothes were two dimes; he also carried a hamper of his Aunt Hannah's homemade delicacies. Waiting for him on the other end of the continent was his Uncle John Minthorn, a doctor and school superintendent whom Hoover recalled as "a severe man on the surface, but like all Quakers kindly at the bottom."

Hoover's six years in Oregon taught him self-reliance. "My boyhood ambition was to be able to earn my own living, without the help of anybody, anywhere." As an office boy in his uncle's Oregon Land Company he mastered bookkeeping and typing, while attending business school in the evening. Thanks to a local schoolteacher, Miss Jane Gray, the boy's eyes were opened to the novels of Charles Dickens and Sir Walter Scott. David Copperfield, the story of another orphan cast into the world to live by his wits, would remain a lifelong favorite.

"This book has been a labor of love for the author who is a niece of Herbert Hoover. Over the past several decades, Mrs. McLean has devoted thousands and thousands of hours to the tireless search for the ancestors of Herbert Hoover. It can be said without fear of contradiction that no president has had so devoted a niece and genealogist as has Herbert Hoover. This book is a testament of that devotion."

HERBERT CLARK HOOVER

(1) HERBERT CLARK* HOOVER, 31st President of the United States, b. 8-10-1874, West Branch, IA, d. 10-20-1964, NY; m. 2-10-1898, Monterey, CA, LOU HENRY, b. 3-29-1874, Waterloo, IA, d. 1-7-1944, NY, daughter of Charles Delano and Florence Ida (Weed) Henry.

Herbert Hoover's widowed mother died when he was 9, leaving him and his brother and sister to be separated and raised by relatives. Herbert was taken in first by his uncle Allen Hoover, and then by his uncle Dr. H.J. Minthorn. He worked his way through Stanford University. In 1895 he graduated and, with $40 in his pocket, went looking for a job. His first job was working ten hours a night, seven nights a week, in a mine. His rise in the mining world was rapid. In 1897 he went to Australia as mining engineer for an English firm, and during the next 17 years this profession took him all over the world. World War I ended his engineering career and called him to public service, first in rescuing 120,000 U.S. citizens stranded in Europe, then in saving untold millions of people in thirty nations from the starvation and pestilence following the war. In 1919 he founded the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution, and Peace, used for research by students throughout the world. He became Secretary of Commerce in 1921, and President of the United States in 1928. When the world depression came during his term as President, he secured the international agreements that enabled European banks to resume functioning, and in the United States started extensive public works programs and a broad program of federal assistance to victims of the depression.

Defeated for re-election to the presidency in 1932, he resumed an active life of public service, including, in World War II, relief activity for over 800,000,000 people in 38 nations. In 1947 he became chairman of the Committee on Organization of the Executive Branch of Government, which led to legislation to save the taxpayers billions of dollars.

During the years in and after the Depression he was the subject of much political calumny. Nevertheless, no man has ever received more honors and demonstrations of heartfelt appreciation from the people of the world than has Herbert Hoover. His distinctions include two joint resolutions of appreciation from Congress, almost a hundred degrees from universities all over the world, more than a hundred honorary medals, countless testimonials, and honors such as being made a Commander of the French Legion of Honor and an honorary citizen of Poland and Finland. He received testaments of appreciation for famine relief from numerous governments, including the Russian (1923), and hundreds of letters from the children of Belgium, Austria, Germany, Hungary, Poland, and Russia.

HERBERT CLARK HOOVER

(1) HERBERT CLARK* HOOVER, 31st President of the United States, b. 8-10-1874, West Branch, IA, d. 10-20-1964, NY; m. 2-10-1898, Monterey, CA, LOU HENRY, b. 3-29-1874, Waterloo, IA, d. 1-7-1944, NY, daughter of Charles Delano and Florence Ida (Weed) Henry.

Herbert Hoover's widowed mother died when he was 9, leaving him and his brother and sister to be separated and raised by relatives. Herbert was taken in first by his uncle Allen Hoover, and then by his uncle Dr. H.J. Minthorn. He worked his way through Stanford University. In 1895 he graduated and, with $40 in his pocket, went looking for a job. His first job was working ten hours a night, seven nights a week, in a mine. His rise in the mining world was rapid. In 1897 he went to Australia as mining engineer for an English firm, and during the next 17 years this profession took him all over the world. World War I ended his engineering career and called him to public service, first in rescuing 120,000 U.S. citizens stranded in Europe, then in saving untold millions of people in thirty nations from the starvation and pestilence following the war. In 1919 he founded the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution, and Peace, used for research by students throughout the world. He became Secretary of Commerce in 1921, and President of the United States in 1928. When the world depression came during his term as President, he secured the international agreements that enabled European banks to resume functioning, and in the United States started extensive public works programs and a broad program of federal assistance to victims of the depression.

Defeated for re-election to the presidency in 1932, he resumed an active life of public service, including, in World War II, relief activity for over 800,000,000 people in 38 nations. In 1947 he became chairman of the Committee on Organization of the Executive Branch of Government, which led to legislation to save the taxpayers billions of dollars.

During the years in and after the Depression he was the subject of much political calumny. Nevertheless, no man has ever received more honors and demonstrations of heartfelt appreciation from the people of the world than has Herbert Hoover. His distinctions include two joint resolutions of appreciation from Congress, almost a hundred degrees from universities all over the world, more than a hundred honorary medals, countless testimonials, and honors such as being made a Commander of the French Legion of Honor and an honorary citizen of Poland and Finland. He received testaments of appreciation for famine relief from numerous governments, including the Russian (1923), and hundreds of letters from the children of Belgium, Austria, Germany, Hungary, Poland, and Russia.
